Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Speech of Richard H. Bayard, of Delaware: On Mr. Denton s Notion to Expunge From the Journal of the Senate the Resolution of March 28th, 1834 Mr. Bayard said that, notwithstanding he had not before had an opportunity of expressing his opinion on the subject now under discussion, yet he should have been unwilling at this late hour to have trespassed on the time and attention of the Senate, had he not felt it to be a duty which he owed to himself and to his immediate constituents, to contend and protest against a measure which he believed to be a violation of the Constitution. I say, sir, constituents, for, in my theory of this Government, we are all the representatives of the People, though chosen after a different manner. Every infraction of the Constitution, however unimportant it may appear in its immediate consequences, tends to diminish the general confidence in the stability of our Government, and the general attachment to it; and as the People of the State I have the honor in part to represent are devotedly attached to that instrument, and feel that their political existence is incorporated with it, that in it they live, and move, and have their being as a political community, I say, sir, it is a duty which I owe to them to contend to the uttermost of my ability against whatever thus incidentally affects them. It is a duty, too, which I owe to myself, as I have a personal interest in whatever affects the character and honor of this body, of which I am an humble member. I have no intention, Mr. President, to inquire into the motives which...
