God and Man Himself, He knew, both by divine intuition and by human experience, the burden of our infirmity. No suffering or sorrow was strange to Him. He had a sympathy and a consolation for all. His divine love was ever in motion through the affections of our nature to heal and strengthen. He too had tasted hunger in the desert: When He had fasted forty days and forty nights, afterwards He was hungry. It was out of the fulness of His own personal knowledge that He said, I have compassion on the multitude.
