Excerpt from Annual Report of the Society for Instruction in First Aid to the Injured: October 1883 The foregoing tabular statement, showing the number of classes, etc., is a complete summary of the local work accomplished by the Society during the past winter, but several of the classes deserve particular mention as being of special importance. First among these are the police classes. Ever since the Committee of the State Charities Aid Association began its labors, an Opportunity for giving instruction to the police has been desired, and strenuous efforts have been made with that end in view, but not until last spring was a definite result Obtained. At that time an order was issued by the Commissioners of Police directing attendance upon lectures, and two classes were formed of men from various precincts, meeting at the Central Office in Mulberry street. The lectures proved eminently satisfactory to the police Officials, and on the final examination the members of the force who had attended the lectures evinced an intelligent understanding of the instruction which they had received. The Society, through its vice-president, has received the assurance of the Superintendent of the Police Department, that during the coming winter all necessary arrangements. Will be made for the continuance of the lectures, and here after regular and systematic instruction in First Aid will be given to the police. The valuable service which has been rendered in London and other cities of Great Britain, as well as in Philadelphia, by the police, who have received instruction, has shown the great practical value of such training, and if the First Aid lectures delivered to the police of this city shall be received, as they have...
